

Stewardship Report

2016-17

DEAR FRIENDS,

"As physicians, we have the privilege of improving the lives of thousands or even tens of thousands of patients. As educators and researchers, we can touch the lives of millions."

– Wael Barsoum, MD

My colleagues and I are honored by every single gift that supports Cleveland Clinic's mission of providing better care of the sick, investigation into their problems, and further education of those who serve.

Philanthropy plays a pivotal role in allowing us to provide the highest-quality healthcare within a setting of education and research. Whether you choose to support one of our medical education programs, the expansion currently underway, or a physician working on life-saving research, your gifts help us go further than we ever could alone. I have often said, as physicians, we have the privilege of improving the lives of thousands or even tens of thousands of patients. As educators and researchers, we can touch the lives of millions.

Embracing this theme, philanthropy is a catalyst for promoting wellness, education and medical innovation in the communities we are honored to serve.

On behalf of Cleveland Clinic Florida and our caregivers, thank you for your faith and trust in us. Your support makes it possible for us to extend the reach of Cleveland Clinic's unique model of medicine that combines patient-centered care with research and innovation to achieve clinical excellence.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Wael Barsoum', with a stylized flourish at the end.

Wael Barsoum, MD | Cleveland Clinic Florida President

GIFTS THAT EDUCATE

MEDICAL EDUCATION

A key component of Cleveland Clinic Florida's mission is further education of those who serve. Philanthropy plays an important role in continued intellectual growth and enhancement of our physicians, fellows, residents, nurses and caregivers.

"Patient care, clinical research and medical education are intertwined and interdependent and Cleveland Clinic Florida's commitment to this is at the core of its mission. We're grateful for the remarkable care and leadership of Dr. Raul Rosenthal and are proud to support him and the Clinic's mission of education."

– George Matthews

Supporter of the General Surgical Residency Program at Cleveland Clinic Florida

Raul Rosenthal, MD, oversees 21 general surgery fellows and residents.

A recent gift to the Otolaryngology Research and Education Fund allowed Speech-Language Pathologist Melissa Grassia-Chisholm to obtain training and certification as a Lee Silverman Voice Treatment (LSVT) clinician. LSVT training is the only American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) recognized research-based program for Parkinson's patients, fulfilling a great need to better the lives of patients at Cleveland Clinic Florida.

"Because of philanthropy I have been able to help members of our community find their best voice possible, and as a result find their best life possible."

– Melissa Grassia-Chisholm, MS, CCC-SLP
Speech-Language Pathologist

Sandford Drexel Smith and Ellan Cates-Smith, supporters of the Colorectal Fellowship.

"We're focused on helping physicians from developing countries gain best-in-class medical expertise. No one exemplifies world-class care more than Dr. Steven Wexner, with his expertise, his leadership and his dedication to education. Our goal is to help support Dr. Wexner train the next generation of physicians not just in the U.S., but in some of the neediest regions of the world."

When these physicians return to their countries, they will have the skills and insights to raise the standard of care of their profession and ultimately provide better care to their patients. This is why we are delighted to sponsor an International Fellow to train with Dr. Wexner."

– Sandford Drexel Smith and Ellan Cates-Smith

GIFTS THAT INNOVATE

RESEARCH

Clinical research has been fundamental to the mission of Cleveland Clinic Florida since its establishment in 1988. More than 300 clinical trials and several hundred research studies have been successfully conducted in Florida and directly impacted the lives of patients around the world. The numerous advances have led to improvements in both outcomes and quality of life.

"Philanthropy is vital to helping our Center lead the efforts toward advancing personalized cancer care and innovative treatment and research, as well as further enhancing the services that we provide at the Maroon Cancer Center. We have ambitious goals and are uniquely positioned to become the premier destination for the highest-quality cancer care in the region."

– Zeina A. Nahleh, MD, FACP
*Director, Maroon Cancer Center
Chair, Department of Hematology/Oncology*

"Community Foundation of Broward supports the development of promising clinical trials to help patients suffering from the deadliest and most prevalent forms of cancer," said Sheri Brown, the Foundation's Vice President of Grants and Initiatives. "Cleveland Clinic Florida is advancing this vital objective through its cutting-edge clinical trial focused on targeted radiation treatments for improved patient outcomes."

The targeted radiation clinical trial is supported by the following Community Foundation of Broward Funds: Mary N. Porter Cancer Research Fund, Harold D. Franks Cancer Fund, and David and Francie Horvitz Family Fund.

The "Young Investigator Award," funded by philanthropy, provides resources for a member of Cleveland Clinic Florida's Professional Staff to support the formation of innovative disease-oriented research.

"As a recipient of the Young Investigator Award funded by the Willits Foundation and other donors, I would like to express my sincere and utmost gratitude for the opportunity to establish a career as an independently funded researcher. Leveraging the projects and expertise gained during this time, I have also begun the process of seeking logical progression and extension of these research efforts."

GIFTS THAT HEAL

PATIENT SERVICES

A number of gifts are designated to provide support services to patients and families. They fund activities and programs that complement and enhance the healing process.

Marie Doll, ATR, MFT, Art Therapist and Counselor, supporting patients through art.

"My father, Robert H. Fields, is likely the one who was the motivating factor behind my mother's creation of the Foundation and my involvement. My father believed strongly in charity and firmly in giving. My reason for targeting the mental well-being of cancer patients and their families is that donations can potentially make a real difference to combating some of the mental aspects and consequences of a cancer diagnosis.

A diagnosis of cancer not only affects the patient directly, but surely must effect all of the lives of those involved. I like to target programs to “try” different things. Even if an experiment fails, some valuable lessons can likely be learned.”

– Nat Fields

The Fields Galley Private Foundation supports the art and music therapy programs being conducted in the Maroone Cancer Center.

“The Diabetic Research Institute (DRI) in Nassau, Bahamas, is passionate about providing support to diabetic patients in the Bahamian community to educate them in ways to manage and prevent diabetes. This is why we support the endocrinology fellowship program at Cleveland Clinic Florida.”

– Mr. Harald McPike

Founder of the nonprofit charity The Diabetic Research Institute, supports Dr. Mohan and his work on diabetes support and education services to patients and families

*Vineeth Mohan, MD,

Endocrinology*

“After I had my own mastectomy in 2008, I realized what helped me get through the long, lonely, hospital nights were the beautiful flower bouquets I had received. The flowers provided me with something to focus on knowing that someone cared and this always made me smile.

When I returned to work during the night as the Hospital Nursing Supervisor, nurses would ask me to speak to the mastectomy patients during the night for many reasons. The majority of the time it was because the night time was a lonely and scary time for them.

It was then that I noticed most patients did not have anything in their rooms to take their mind off the surgery so I started to deliver flowers to their rooms, to bring the women a ‘little ray of sunshine’ during a difficult time. Nine years later there are a number of donors who support this wonderful service.”

GIFTS THAT BUILD AND ADVANCE MEDICAL INNOVATION

CAPITAL AND EQUIPMENT

Capital gifts fund projects including the current hospital expansion and the purchase of leading-edge equipment to better patient care and outcomes.

The Emergency Department recently received a gift to purchase equipment, enhancing emergency ophthalmology care.

“When we care for patients with eye injuries due to automobile crashes or exposure to chemicals, our new equipment will enable us to quickly identify and treat eye traumas by observing the whole eye, even behind the retina.”

— James Roach, DO
Emergency Medicine Chair

“Over the years, we have been patients in the clinic and the hospital. Because we were so pleased with our care, we became donors. Many other people have also realized the high quality of care at Cleveland Clinic Florida — so many, in fact, that during a recent emergency, we discovered a full Emergency Department and hospital. We saw firsthand the need for more beds, and decided to increase our donation to the Emergency Department and hospital expansion currently underway.”

— Jane and Gabe Auerbach
Supporters of the hospital expansion

"When I was only 21 my father passed of colon cancer. The disease was emotionally and physically draining, especially after he had surgery and needed to use a stoma bag. Being taught by a professional nurse how to care for a stoma and getting help with the supplies would have made this process much easier for my dad. Through this gift it is my hope to relieve the unnecessary emotional distress that comes with colon cancer and put more focus on patient healing and educating stoma nurses to help patients on their journey."

GIFTS THAT SECURE THE FUTURE

ENDOWMENT

Gifts to the endowment are an investment in Cleveland Clinic Florida's future, as only the income earned on the principal is used allowing the fund to grow in perpetuity.

"Cleveland Clinic is a leader in world-class healthcare, research and education and we are fortunate to have its presence here in South Florida. We believe in its collaborative approach to healthcare, which can be traced back to its founding. Just as its six fundamental values form the foundation of Cleveland Clinic's culture, one of the pillars of a strong financial future is its endowment. We are proud to be able to contribute and help provide towards Cleveland Clinic Florida's future."

– Luann and Bill Hoffman

Donors to Cleveland Clinic Florida's endowment

Suzanne and Robert Tomsich

"For more than 20 years my family and I have been proud to support the dedicated caregivers at Cleveland Clinic in their efforts to provide premier care while advancing medical innovation and education. Since they cared for my mother years ago, I know they have always focused on putting patients first. That's why Suzanne and I are passionate about helping provide the tools they need to fulfill their mission here in Florida."
