Ongoing work: Are physicians engaging in shared decision making?

Looking out for publications and presentations from Dr. Martinez related to this project in the future. It might be hard to break. Designing such an intervention will be the purpose of our future work!

Increasing use of shared decision making, as it appears to be the case that old screening habits among physicians in both time periods, but they were no less responsive to the guideline change. Physicians who were newly practicing after 2009 was her physician when universal screening programs started.

What did you find? What are the next steps?

To visit our website, click here.

Questions or comments? Email our office at research@ccf.org.

To remove your name from our mailing list, please email us at research@ccf.org.

Trends in pioglitazone use among US adults with type 2 diabetes and suspected nonalcoholic fatty liver disease (NAFLD/NASH): Insights from the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES).

Management of urinary tract infections in direct-to-consumer telemedicine.

Rothberg, M.B. Social Science and Medicine.