Cleveland Clinic

17th Annual

Clinical Nursing Research

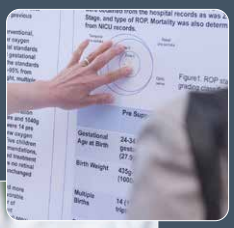

CONFERENCE 2022

April 25-26, 2022
8 a.m. – 4 p.m.

Virtual Conference

Sponsored by Cleveland Clinic Stanley Shalom Zielony Institute for Nursing Excellence

Overview

The goal of this conference is to disseminate research findings and stimulate discussion and networking among clinical nurses, academic nurses and nurse scientists. The conference provides oral and poster research presentations as well as featured presentations by nationally renowned nurse leaders.

Specific Aims

The aims of this conference are (1) to provide a forum for research collaboration and partnerships among nurses at various clinical and academic institutions, (2) to share results of clinical research studies and ultimately, foster a culture of inquiry, implementation science, and delivery of care based on best-practice evidence, (3) to increase knowledge of methodology options related to research planning and implementation, (4) to enhance attendees' knowledge of research processes and clinical research through discussion and networking.

Our target audience includes clinical and academic nurses who engaged or planning to become engaged in research that improves clinical outcomes.

Who Should Attend?

1. Healthcare professionals interested or participating in clinical research.
2. Students in healthcare professions.
3. Magnet® and Journey to Magnet Excellence® program coordinators.
4. Faculty who chair or advise capstone, project or dissertation committees.
5. Nurse scientists.

Keynote Speakers

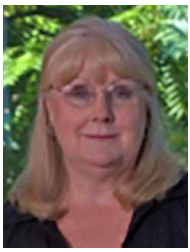

Cindy Munro, PhD, RN, ANP-BC, FAAN, FAANP, FAAAS

Dr. Cindy Munro is Dean at the University of Miami School of Nursing and Health Studies. She earned a PhD in Nursing and Microbiology and Immunology at Virginia Commonwealth University, and is a nurse practitioner.

Her research focuses on preventing complications in critically ill adults. She has been supported by research funding of more than $18 million. Her study of oral care in the ICU changed national practice guidelines. Dr. Munro has published more than 200 articles.

Dr. Munro is co-editor-in-chief of the American Journal of Critical Care. She is a Fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Association of Nurse Practitioners, and the American Academy of Nursing. She is a member of the National Academy of Inventors. She also serves on the National Institutes of Health National Advisory Council for Nursing Research.

She was a founding Ambassador of the Friends of the National Institute of Nursing Research, and served on the Board of Directors. She was a Distinguished Research Lecturer of the American Association of Critical-Care Nurses, received the Sigma Theta Tau International Nursing Research Hall of Fame Award, and is an American Academy of Nursing Academy Edge Runner.

Helene Moriarty, PhD, RN, FAAN

Dr. Moriarty is Professor, Diane and Robert Moritz, Jr. Endowed Chair in Nursing Research at Villanova University, M. Louise Fitzpatrick College of Nursing. She is also a Nurse Scientist and Co-Program Director of a VA Interprofessional Fellowship in Patient Safety at the Corporal Michael J. Crescenz VA Medical Center in Philadelphia. She is a member of the New Courtland Center for Transitions and Health, a research center at the University of Pennsylvania School of Nursing. Dr. Moriarty's career has focused on improving our understanding and care of individuals and families experiencing severe stress, with a special emphasis on military veterans and their families. Dr. Moriarty and colleague Dr. Laraine Winter were principal investigators on an NIH-funded randomized controlled trial that evaluated the impact of the Veterans' In-home Program (VIP), an intervention for veterans with traumatic brain injury (TBI) and their families. Drs. Moriarty's and Winter's current study tests a rehabilitation approach, that addresses critical gaps in services and research for civilians and veterans with chronic TBI symptoms and their families.

Dr. Moriarty has served as Co-Chair of the Family Research Interest Group of the Eastern Nursing Research Society and Editorial Board member of the Journal of Family Nursing since 1995.

She has held leadership roles within the VA health system and serves as a member of the American Academy of Nursing's Expert Panel on Military and Veterans Health. In 2019, she was appointed to the VA Nursing Research Field Advisory Committee charged with developing and implementing the strategic plan for nursing research for the VA health system. Since December 2020, Dr. Moriarty has served on the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering and Medicine Committee on Accelerating Progress in Traumatic Brain Injury Research and Care, which is preparing a report with a 10-year roadmap and recommendations for advancing TBI research and clinical care.

Program Speakers
