

Patient Rights and Responsibilities

As a patient,
you have the right...

Personal Privacy/Visitation

- To have your personal dignity respected.
- To the confidentiality of your identifiable health information.
- To enjoy personal privacy and a safe, clean environment and to let us know if you would like to restrict your visitors or phone calls.
- To receive visitors of your choosing that you (or your support person, where appropriate) designate, including a spouse, a domestic partner (including a same-sex domestic partner), or another family member or a friend, and the right to withdraw or deny your consent to receive such visitors at any time.
- To be informed (or your support person to be informed, where appropriate) of your visitation rights, including any clinically necessary restriction or limitation on such rights.
- To designate a support person who will designate visitors on your behalf, should you be unable to do so.

Security

- To be free from all forms of abuse or harassment.
- To access protective and advocacy services.
- To know that restraints will be used only to ensure the immediate physical safety of the patient, staff member or others, and in accordance with established standards.

Cultural and Spiritual Values

- To have your cultural, psychosocial, spiritual, and personal values, beliefs and preferences respected.
- To have access to pastoral and other spiritual services.

Access to Care

- To receive care regardless of your age, race, color, national origin, culture, ethnicity, language, socioeconomic status, religion, physical or mental disability, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity or expression, or manner of payment.
- To ask for a change of provider or a second opinion.

Access to Information

- To make advance directives and have them followed, subject to limitations required by applicable law or medical standards.
- To have your family or a representative you choose and your own physician, if requested, be informed of your hospital admission.
- To know the rules regulating your care and conduct.
- To know that Cleveland Clinic hospitals are teaching hospitals and that some of your caregivers may be in training.
- To ask your caregivers if they are in training.
- To know the names and professional titles of your caregivers.
- To have your bill explained and receive information about charges that you may be responsible for, and any potential limitations your policy may place on your coverage.
- To be told what you need to know about your health condition after hospital discharge or office visit.
- To be informed and involved in decisions that affect your care, health status, services or treatment.
- To understand your diagnosis, condition and treatment and make informed decisions about your care after being advised of material risks, benefits and alternatives.
- To knowingly refuse any care, treatment and services.
- To say “yes” or “no” to experimental treatments and to be advised when a physician is considering you to be part of a medical research program or donor program. All medical research goes through a special process required by law that reviews protections for patients involved in research, including privacy. We will not involve you in any medical research without going through this special process. You may refuse or withdraw at any time without consequence to your care.
- To legally appoint someone else to make decisions for you if you should become unable to do so, and have that person approve or refuse care, treatment and services.

- To have your family or representative involved in care, treatment and service decisions, as allowed by law.
- To be informed of unanticipated adverse outcomes.
