October 24, 2012 9:15-9:45AM (Posters)

Regular Posters:

1. Researching MUPS: An experiential approach interviewing patients and physicians about diagnostic uncertainty. Chloe Atkins, University of Calgary

2. What we might learn from pain rehabilitation in the treatment of pseudoseizures
   Scheman Judith, Cleveland Clinic

3. Moral disengagement and provider neglect of treatable pain
   Kelly Dineen, Saint Louis University

4. Thinking outside the box: Intractable seizures in the glioma patient, Is seizure surgery the answer?
   Kathleen Lupica, Glenn Stephens, Cleveland Clinic

5. "Treating as though": an account of the moral status of children and the cognitively disabled
   Takunda Matose, Technical Resources International, INC

Late Breaking Posters:

7. Let them talk*: heteroglossia, trauma narratives, and the PNES patient
   Lauren Boehm

8. Identical Prescriptions, Disparate Treatment: Anticonvulsant Usage in Frontal Lobe Epilepsy and Bipolar I Disorder,
   Bryn Esplin, University of Nevada Las Vegas.

   Olena Nikolenko, Lusiena Klaupik, Oleg Nikolenko, Inna Fokina, Institute of Cryogenic Technologies and Engineering

10. Epilepsy Surgery and Hope
    Dana Patton, Kimberly Yee, Cynthia Kubu, Paul Ford. Cleveland Clinic

October 24, 2012 9:55-11:25 a.m.

1a) Organized Panel: Working Session on Ethical Issues in Adult Nonepileptic Seizures
   W. Curt LaFrance, Jr., MD (moderator), Brien Smith, MD, Susan Stagno, MD, Eran Klein, MD, PhD., Laura Ross, MA
1b) Accepted Oral Presentations: Neuroimaging
A review of evidence-based ethics literature in neuroimaging: Is the image clear?
Nicole Palmour, Eric Racine, Institut de recherches cliniques de Montreal

Ethical implications of detecting awareness in disorders of consciousness: Question asking through a binary interface
Andrew Peterson, Adrian Owen, Lorina Naci, Charles Weijer, Davinia Espejo, Angela White, Damian Cruse Rotman Institute of Philosophy;

Investigators’ ethical obligations to patients’ families in disorders of consciousness research
Mackenzie Graham, Co-Authors: Angela White, Andrew Peterson, Damian Cruse, Davinia Fernández-Espejo, Lorina Naci, Charles Weijer, Adrian Owen, Rotman Institute of Philosophy

1c) Accepted Oral Presentations: Stigma and Brain Disease
Addiction as brain disease: Current perspectives
Rachel Hammer, Jenny Ostergren, Molly Dingel, Jennifer McCormick, Barbara Koenig, Mayo Clinic;

Prediction and prevention of stigmatization of adult individuals with Asperger disorder and high function autism
Kelly Dineen, Saint Louis University

Re-classification of autism and its ethical impact on diagnosis, treatment, and family
Julie Aultman, Northeast Ohio Medical University

October 24, 2012 2:00-3:30 p.m.

2a) Organized Panel: Working Session on Ethical Issues in Pediatric Nonepileptic Seizures
Cristie Cole, JD (moderator), Tatiana Falcone MD, PhD, Rochelle Caplan, MD, Kristine Jares, MSASS

2b) Accepted Oral Presentations: Mind and Brain
Ways of knowing and unknowing: A neuroethics review of higher and lower cortical function
Hillel Braude, Hebrew University of Jerusalem

The ethics of nudging and the architecture of the mind
Yashar Saghai, Kennedy Institute of Ethics

Unlikely pairings: Spinoza, neuroscience and the mind-body problem
Robert Doyle, Loyola Marymount University

2c) Accepted Oral Presentations: Public Health and Societal Issues
Understanding concussion in Australia’s “collision sports”: Assessing the risks and promoting Prevention Strategies in Rugby League, Rugby Union and Australian Football
Bradley Partridge, Frederic Gilbert, University of Queensland Centre for Clinical Research (UQCCR):

The efficacy and safety of existing medications used for cognitive enhancement in healthy individuals: DEAL Maker or DEAL Breaker in the Ethics Debate?
Cynthia Forlini, Wayne Hall, Bruce Maxwell, Simon M Outram, Peter B Reiner, Dimitris Repantis, Maartje Schermer, Eric Racine; Institut de recherches cliniques de Montreal

Chronic malnutrition and neuroethics
Jorge Lazareff, David Geffen School of Medicine
October 25, 2012 9:40-11:10 a.m.
3a) Organized Panel: “Parent-ectomy” / “Child-ectomy”
Dylan Wint, Jalayne Arias

3b) Accepted Oral Presentations: Disease Frameworks
How discourse around novel “cures” for Fragile X shapes conceptions of best interest
Lucie Wade, Lonnie Zwaigenbaum, and Eric Racine, University of Toronto

Inconsistencies and ethical issues in the treatment of chronic pain
Sara Davin, Cleveland Clinic Foundation

Metaphor and the Self: A Role for the arts in Understanding Suffering and Treating the Person in Distress
Lynn Underwood, Cleveland State University and University of Liverpool

3c) Accepted Oral Presentations: Somatoform Disorders and Uncertainty
Catch me if you can -- considerations on malingering in the movement disorder clinic
Kathrin Czarnecki, National Institute for Neurological Diseases and Stroke

Faceless fatigue: ethical considerations on the elusiveness of CFS/ME
Smaranda Ene, Case Western Reserve University

Ethical tensions in the neuropsychological evaluation of the “worried well”
Cynthia Kubu, Cleveland Clinic Foundation

October 25, 2012 1:45-3:15 p.m.
4a) Organized Panel: DSM-V Redefinitions Panel
Barbara Russell (moderator), Peter Whitehouse

4b) Accepted Oral Presentations: Clinical Neuroethics
Attitudes on mind over matter: Physician views on the role of placebo in psychogenic disorders
Karen Rommelfanger, Emory University

Long-term care for patients with chronic disorders of consciousness: a qualitative interview study with German nurses
Katja Kuehlmeyer, Ralf Jox, Ludwig-Maximilians-University Munich Institute of Ethics, History and Theory of Medicine

Clinical uncertainty and the ethics of decision making in patients with intracranial hemorrhage
Michael Kelly, Robert Weil, Cleveland Clinic Foundation Neurosurgery

4c) Accepted Oral Presentations: Deep Brain Stimulation and Mental States
Categorizing complexity: The ethics of translational research
Samantha Copeland, Dalhousie University

Reflections on informed consent and deep brain stimulation (DBS): Untangling concerns about vulnerability in psychiatric patients
Eric Racine, Emily Bell, Institut de recherches cliniques de Montreal

Authenticity and Psychiatric Deep Brain Stimulation
Carolyn Plunkett, The Graduate Center, City University of New York